UNWELCOMED

DIRECTOR & PRODUCER
HOSSEIN MIRZA MOHAMMADI

A man with a mustache, wearing a patterned short-sleeved shirt, is shown in profile from the chest up, looking towards the right. He is standing in a room with a purple wall. On the wall, there is a framed painting of a person in a white shirt and dark pants, and a large, faint map of the world. The room is dimly lit, with light coming from the left, casting a shadow on the wall.

Synopsis

Ladan (an Iranian actress) is supposed to be the main character of her husband's (Arash) first movie. It also will be the first appearance of her in a movie. However she has been acting in theatre for a long time. She does everything and rehearsing a lot to do her best in the movie. She also dropped her role in a play to increase her efforts in her role in the movie. Ladan knows it's not easy to be an actress in Iran. But, she is determined to be recognized by her role in the movie. Just before the shooting starts, she finds out that, Arash and the producer of the movie have swapped her with another girl because, she offered them money for the movie production. So, Ladan faces two choices, her dream work or her life . But, she chooses revenge.

Director's statement

As an artist in film industry, a question has been always in my mind which is, how we can distinguish our private life with our work life? And also what'd happen if we marry with a person who has the same job? Would it effect our life or there is no matter? I've been looking around myself to find a right answer. I searched among my colleagues, friends and even my heroes in film industry. I thought finding a right answer means digging into it and, bring up whatever the possibilities that could exist. So, for doing that I decided to create some character in which, I experiment what it feels to have a spouse who has the same job as you. With knowing the fact that in our career we sometime need to be as cruel as a monster. Do we smash our partner and cross them or no we care about our private life to the point that nothing matters at all.

Believe or not there is no right or wrong answer. There are as many answers as every person on earth. But, we as a human have something in common which, is our instinct. When we face an abnormal obstacle in our way to success, our instinct demand us to cross whatever in front of you and smash it in order to achieve what you've been waiting for. This is what I found in my way of finding a true answer. On the other hand we deal with a society in which, judging each other is as easy as drinking a glass of water. I made this movie in a country where everything become even more complicate. As a woman and also as an artist you don't have an easy way to bring your dream coming through. I've seen many times that, even a woman in middle eastern society can't trust her closest person in her life. The reason is because we were told that, in order to be survived you should learn how to kill. So, seeing all these disappointing atmospheres in my society gave me the thought of making this movie. And also having that question to answer was enough for me to make this movie Unwelcomed.

In Unwelcomed I created a world in which, our characters need to decide whether listen to their distinct or their conscience. Our characters in the story need to decide what is bad or what is good or even think is there any good or bad in our life? In unwelcomed we feel what our soul could be capable of. I can say our real life is like a battle field in which, we have the mission to be survived and pay the cost of it. At the same time, in my story and, also in our real universe the only weapon we need to carry is our honesty and love.
